Company culture report

The following report illustrates the candidates' company culture preferences based on their responses to the pick24 company culture test.

The results of the pick24 company culture test are generated by matching the responses of the candidate against the organisation's company culture assessment. It is important that you acknowledge that your organisation's test is based around the opinions of one individual and may therefore not truly represent the organisation. Also please be mindful that sometimes it is desirable to have some difference between employees and the organisation's perceptions of company culture.

The results illustrate a comparison of your organisation's and the candidates perceptions of company culture. The overall score is displayed next to the candidates' name. An average score or higher is considered acceptable for most non-management positions. For higher level management positions a fit of good or excellent is considered acceptable.

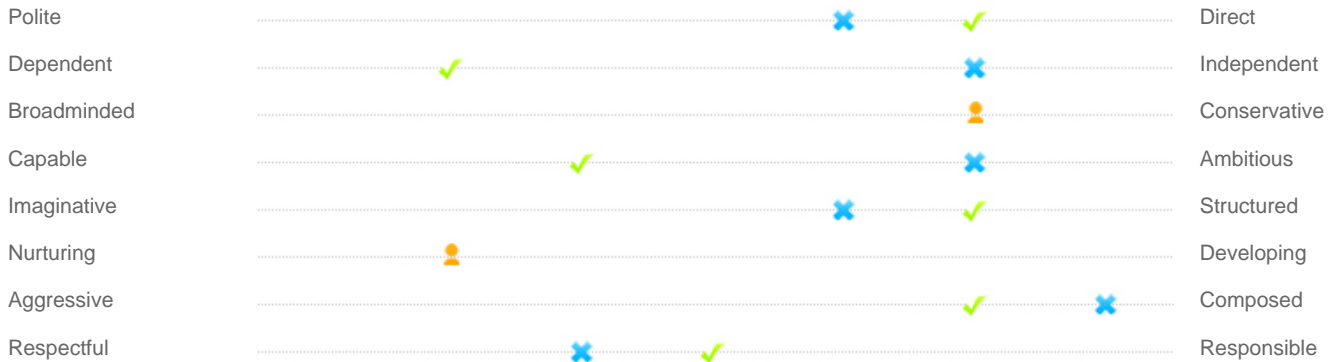

The pick24 company culture assessment is also broken down into six sub categories. These categories represent key areas where culture manifests in organisational settings. The importance of these categories will vary depending on the nature of your organisation. Please ensure you are mindful of these differences when making your final recruitment decisions.
